01 March 2007,

Dear Nick,

Having maintained a close working relationship with NER and yourself personally for nearly three years now and having secured several more successful appointments recently, I thought it was an appropriate time to express our continued confidence and appreciation for your services.

In particular, I am impressed by your consultants' ability to both identify and select the right technical skills and calibre individuals consistently across the broad spectrum of employment opportunities we recruit at HiFX.

It is a pleasure to speak with business focused individuals who are as passionate about our business as we are in a recruitment market currently saturated with 'recruitment specialists' proclaiming to understand forex recruitment.

As your own business has grown, the quality of customer service and relationship management of our account has never been in question.

I would not hesitate in recommending your services to any prospective client seeking fast and effective recruitment solutions within the FX arena.

Yours sincerely
Peter Samuel
HR Director
